She delighted those who were fortunate enough to be present. Arias from "Adda" sad "Sonnambula," with one or two ballads gave sufficient proof of the marked improvement the fair singer has made under the celebrated Marchesi, both in dramatic expression and in brilliant execution, surprising those present with the volume of voice and delightful timbre and quality. was unusually magnetic to the pleasure the guests felt in listening to the choice programme that was given. It was largely made up-of new music recently received direct from Germany. Under Prof. Vass' baton it was played in the most part, exquisitely, Freshbe's "Souvenir de Baden-Baden" played as a cornet sole by Mr. Roller, Verdis' "Nebuchandnez'r" overture and Claren's "Air de la Prinasse" were greatly admired. Perhans the gem of the evening was a string quartette, one of Haydn's composition, in four movements, played by L. Vass, first violit, F. Viewig, second, L. Felner, viola, and Harry Siurm, cello. It was yery beautiful. The cello was introduced for the first time at these rebearsals. Mr. Sturm plays both if and the double bass admirably. The orchestra has long wanted another stringed instrument to more evenly balance the bass. Mr. Sturm's services on the double base can not be dispensed with, however, and the cello will only be heard on special occasions like last night.

Deaths Yesterday.

Mr. R. H. Sweney, a well known citizen of Wheeling, died at an early hour yesterday meraing, much to the regret of a large circle of friends. He had been in poor-health for a long time, but his death at this time was not expected. He had not been in business for the past year or two. Decraved was a son of Squira Thomas Sweeney, of the Island, and a brother of ex-Mayor Sweeney.

Mr. Charles McMechen, a popular young man, a clerk in Schwabacker's dry goods store, also died yesterday after a tedious illness. Both of the decased were members of the Knights of Honor, under the auspices of which order their funerals will be held.

ABOUT SHOPPING

SOME SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Sisters and Your Cousins and Your Aunts, and the Rest of Your Family and Friends, and Where You Should Buy it.

ponder what he will purchase for his 'dear five hundred friends." It is no easy task to select appropriate and acceptable presents for father, mother, sister, brother, etheart or wife, your own or your relatives' little ones; in fact it is almost impossitives' little ones; in fact it is simust impossi-ble in the short time a business man has at his disposal, and it requires more expeditions to the various stores than the most confirmed "shopper" among the ladies really enjoys. With a view to getting some practical sug-gestions in regard to the selection of presents for the different members of different fami-lies, and some knowledge of the most advan-tageous places to buy, an INTELLORNCER man has spent some time in making the rounds of the iswelry dry goods and notion stores, and the jewelry, dry goods and notion stores, at all other stores where anything appropr or the coming holidays is to be found.

In considering the choice of presents for a lady friend, "something to wear" should head the list, for no odds how well a lady's wardrobe may be aupplied some new addition to it is always acceptable. A visit to George R. Tsylor's, 1150 Main street, will show a complete line of cloaks, sacques and wraps of all kinds, which are peculiarly appropriate for presents at this time of year. Mr. Taylor also has a thousand-and-one articles as appropriate but less costly, and therefore perhaps more popular with most of the gentlemen. Almost any price will, however, meet something here to delight the heart of ladles, young or old, and a visit will well repay one intending to "do the Santa Claus act." SHOULD HEAD THE LIST.

A few doors up street one enters a palatial store where the eye is fairly bewildered by the variety of articles justanited for presents. This is Brues & Coffers. These gentlemen have an assortment of fine lace collars, fichus, etc., handkerohies and other fine slik and linen goods, as well as all sorts of wraps of the latest styles and most elegant designs. They give some attention to specialties suited for presents from fancy articles of trifling. They give some attention to specialties sulled for presents, from fancy articles of trifling cost to costly stuffs which would be an appropriate gift to a queen. An elegant dress pattern makes a present always acceptable and appropriate for a lady friend, and a person with a bundred fair friends and a plethoric with a hundred fair friends and a piethoric pocketbook might select from Brues & Cof-fer's stock articles for all of them, and then find himself longing for more friends to give presents to, that he might have the pleasure of delighting somebody with one of the hun-dreds of other things he saw, and from which he had chosen at random. A HANDY ARRANGEMENT.

Messra, George E. Stifel & Co., at 1114 Main street, have also an entrance from Market street by way of Durst'so infectionery. Messra, Stifel & Co. have made more special preparations, possibly, than any other house in their line, to meet the demand for articles suitable for the holiday times. Their stock of fancy and staple dress goods, and notions popular with those seeking presents is fresh and complete. They also offer some special inducements in cloaks and wraps, which those desiring such things should investigate before making their purchases. Early visitors will find it pleasant, as during the latter part of the day there is invariably a rush Friend & Son, 1003 Main street. Almost any purse can be entited here, and anything from a blacking case to an elegant parlor set can be found in their stock.

At G. Mendel & Co.'s, 1124 Main street, also is to be seen an array of honsehold articles as useful as they are beautiful. This firm has a large stock of rattan chairs which are much sought after at this seazon of gift making. They are within the reach of all; or if you wish to make a more costly present. making. They are within the reach of all; or if you wish to make a more costly present Mendel & Co. can show you the most elegant assortment of fine and costly furniture in -sil-the-popular siyles, unsarpassed in beauty, wormanship or material in this or any other city. Book cases, deaks, easy chairs, bed room, dining room or parlor sets—there is no limit to the selection their stock affords.

THE FLEST PLACE

nearly everybody goes when selecting Christmas presents, is to I. G. Dillon's palatial store, which with its luring windows, the hancsomest in the city, is a perpetual advertisement of itself. In addition to elegant clocks, fine watches and beautinil jeweiry, Mr. Dillon probably has a stock of goods appropriate to the holidays which is unrivaled within a hundred miles; certainly in the city. Bisque statuettes, novelites in French, Hungarian and Bohemian ware, antique vases, carlebad flower pieces and Royal Worcester and old visina warea hashilty flig windows, crowd lies cases and ourgiest his shelves. For rentlemen, sporting goods are also included. But it would take an entire newspaper to describe his stock in detail.

Another class of presents which recom-mend themselves to sensible people who seek to combline the useful and the orna-mental, is gable ware. This seems very popu-lar this year, as can readily be seen by a visit to John Friedel's, 1130 Main street. In a 3di-tion to fine decorated China dinner, tea and fruit sets, chamber sets and dishes, he has an attractive array of bitque ware, parian marble articles, rare out and engraved glass ware, justly very popular for presents, brocks figures, vasee, and the like.

A novel idea can be carried out by calling on W. H. Rinehart, 1215 Market street, and leaving an order for a china cup and saucer with your photograph. For a young lady who wishes to be especially gracious to some young gentleman, this offers an attractive opportunity. Here will also be found a complete and well selected stock of china, queensware, ornamental glassware and the like goods.

Similar lines of goods in variety can be found by Fifth ward readers at Davison Brothers, on the Centre Market Square.

ART 100032.

ART GOODS.

Art Joops.

A popular cress, always to be encouraged, springs up about this time of year for art goods. It has been said, "We should encourage the beautiful, for the useful will encourage itself," This is apparently the principal on which Mr. Mr. E. L. Nicoll, the McLure House art dealer, conducts his store. He is ever making some new arrangement of his attractive stock to stimulate the taste for fine things in his line, and a visit to his store on Market street is a treat for one of artistic tastes. He has a fine line of articles which suggest Christmas.

tastes. He has a fine line of articles which suggest Christmas.

Mr. J. H. Kirk, the enterprising art dealer on Main street, near Tenth, has his large room crowded with a wildering array of art goods and Christmas novelites. Mr. Kirk's store is worth a visit at any time, but especially now. He has done a considerable business in holly and mistatee, and Christmas evergens, and is still receiving orders. In addition to this specialty he has a complete line of engravings, frames, chromes, Christmas and New Year cards and other seasonable goods.

ALWAYS IN DEMARD,

ALWAYS IN DEMAND.

In regard to books, an old couplet might thus be travestied:

Let those now buy who never bought before, and those who always bought now buy the mo Lat those now buy who never bought before, And those who always bought now buy; he more. This is what they always do at the Christmas tide, and this is as it should be. There is nothing so universally appropriate as books for Christmas presents. The old, the middle agod, the young, the children, of both sexes and all walks in life are remembered annually at this season by the book makers, and at stanton & Davenport's, 1301 Market street, the result of this year's making books can now be inspected, together with all the standard and popular works of the past. The elegant holiday volumes this year are enough to turn the head of a lover of good literature and sumptuous illustrations. Stanton & Davenport have also, in addition to a full line of books, the popular periodicals, stationery, scrap books, alboms, and fancy articles of a wide range of designs. A shopping tour which does not include their establishment is not complete.

THE COUNTERPENT PRESENTMENT.

THE COUNTERFEIT PRESENTMENT. A convenient, appropriate and acceptable present, especially for a friend at a distance, is a photograph of one's self or one's family, No cheaper way of remembering a friend at this season of remembrance can be found than that here suggested, and orders should be left early. Higgins' gallery, on Twelfth street, near Market, Parsons', on Market street opposite the McLure House, and Myles' at 2154 Main a rest, all have high reputations won by good work. The artistic work done by these Wheeling photographers is something for all Wheelingites to be proud of. Few cities of the population in the country can show three photographers whose work will compare as favorably with the fine work of the leading galleries in the large cities. A photograph from one of these artists will speak volumes for the community if sent abroad.

MUSIC IN THE HOUSE.

This is sure to be music in the household about Ohristmas times, and a wide field for choice of holiday presents is afforded at the large music rooms of Wilson & Baumer, on Market street. A plano would gratify a whole house full of friends, and the same object would be accomplished by one of the organs of various makes and a wide range of prices handled by this house. The variety of styles and prices in musical instruments MUSIC IN THE HOUSE. prices handled by this house. The variety of styles and prices in musical instruments now-adays makes it possible for almost all tastes and figures to be gratified; or if these seem costly for one's purse a great variety of other instruments and musical goods remains to select from. To a friend having an organ or pisno, what so acceptable as a new portfolio of late music? While all classes of people will find something pleasing in the wide range of minor instruments to be found at Wilson & Baumer's.

A WORD OF ADVICE.

A WORD OF ADVICE.

These hints to intending buyers may be found of service. To all, the advice is given, make your purchases as early this week as possible. Every day adds to the rush at the stores, on the streets and on the boats and cars. Go early, and you will enjoy your shopping; while later in the week it will be found anything but pleasant.

Country people in town will do well to drop in for dinner at Martin Thornton's Capital Restaurant, on Market street, and get a good, home-like meal, served by attentive waiters and amid clean and attractive surroundings.

These suggestions will be continued here ifter, as a complete resume of the favority places for holiday visitors at one time would become tedious, and still leave much unsaid

BLESSING THE BANNER recently Presented to the Knights of S

George. Yesterday afternoon at half-past 2 o'clock the solemn ceremony of blessing the banne recently presented to the Knights of St Seorge, a Catholicsemi-military organization of this city, by the lady friends of the men bers, took place at the Cathearal. At o'clock the Knights in uniform, headed be the Opera House band and bearing the ban ner, left their place of meeting, St. Alphonau Hall, and marched to the Cathedral. The presented a superb appearance in their ele-gant uniforms, and showed thorough drill by their skilled performance of difficult me nauvers.

The Cathedral was already crowded by people anxious to witness the novel ceremony when the Knights arrived. They took seats reserved for them near the front. Right Rev. Bishop Kain blessed the banner, and also delivered an appropriate address, dwelling on the privilegee of Catholic societies, as well as their high duties and responsibilities. The address was for special reasons very timely just now.

At the conclusion of the address the Knights again formed and marched to their hall.

A Convict to Have a New Trial.

The most interesting case before the Supreme Court of Appeals Baturday was that of Dr. William C. Heaton, of Gilmer county. Dr. Heaton was convicted of hores stealing in the Circuit Court of Gilmer county early in the present year, and has been in the penitentiary at Moundsville for several mouths. He was brought into the Supreme Court of Appeals Saturday and given into the custody of Sheriff Brown, of this county, to be taken back to Gilmer county for a new trial. He is an intelligent man, and expresses his confidence in his ultimate acquittal of the serious charge against him.

New Dining Room. New Dining Room.

Immediately upon assuming entire control of the McLure House Mr. F. J. Norton commenced making decided improvements. The dining room was closed and completely renovated. Yesterday it was opened. The change in appearance is wonderful. Everything is new, and a more cheerful, cosy dining room it would be hard to find. The walls are painted a pale green with a dark red waint-octing. The ceiling is a very handsome one. Heavy i ambrequins of fine material hang over each window and heavy Brussels is on the floor. Large glass chanueliers have been substituted for the old ones. The linen, silverware and china is all new and rich in design. It is Mr. Norton's intention to make his table a feature, and if the standard of yesterday is lived up to he will succeed.

Two young men named Persinger and Teter were engaged in a fight at Cutlin's
Mills, on the Little Kanawha river, in Barbour county, a few days ago, and being "clinched," and in their struggles getting too near the edge of the road, they rolled into the river. They did not relinquish their holds until they had sunk to the bottom, which was about ten feet. When they rose to the top they had had enough. A beautiful Souvanir for you, free, at the Grand Opening Reception of the Famous One-Price Hatters and Furnishers.

While a concert was being given by th Colored Band in the Lewisburg Town Hall last week, a difficulty occurred between several members of the audience, white an colored. Before the disturbance was quelle colored. Belore the disturbance was queled by the officers pistols and knives were drawn, and clubs and slung-shots were freely used, but no one was seriously hurt. The trouble was caused by three white men—two Judys and a Hinkle—who were distributing the contents of a whisky jug too freely among some of their colored friends.

The Pochonias Times says: About ten years and eight months ago, John Garnet, a colored resident of this county, lost his eyesight. Since that time he has been entirely blind and a county charge. On the 4th inst, his wife went away from the cabin to do some work for the neighbors, leaving Garnet in the care of one of the children. She did not return until late in the evening, and as she neared the house was astonished to hear a loud shouting and stamping inside, and on reaching the door found it was her husband who was making the noise. He greeted her entrance with the shout, "Blessed Jesus! I can sie once more! There comes my wife that I haven't seen before for ten years!" In Greenbrier county, a few nights since, a large barn belonging to John Sims was burned, entailing quite a severe loss. The work was that of an incendiary. It seems that Jack DePriest, the acoused person, ast the barn on fire and then went to Sims' house and kept him engaged in conversation until the light was seen glimmering underneath the door. On going to the door he found the barn enveloped in flames. Sims was accompanied by DePriest to the burning barn who informs. On going to the door he found the barn en veloped in flames. Sims was accompanied by DePriest to the burning barn, who informed Mr. S. that the mischief had been done by a person with whom Sims had had some trouble. But after Sims accessed him o burning the barn he acknowled that he did the burning, but said he had been persuade by other parties. Sheriff Knight and Jame A. Notwithstanding the disagreeable night the congregation was large. Rev. Mr. Mulford took his text from 8t. John xx21vx, "What I have written I have written." The point he made was, that all life is history and life history is changeless; this truth he presented in a very earnest manner, and his remarks were listened to with marked attention. His farewell words were also presented strongly. In his discourse he incorporated the following statistics: While here he has preached in strongly.
